Dow Jones

A brutal week for growth stocks as rising Treasury yields dominated every session. The 30-year Treasury yield cracked 5% for the first time in nearly two decades, the 20-year hit 5.19%, and the 10-year approached 4.66% — all at 52-week highs. The catalyst: Kevin Warsh was sworn in as the new Fed Chair, and markets quickly realized his path to rate cuts is far harder than Trump expected. Nasdaq led the decline at -2.01% as high-duration tech names got hammered by the rate spike. The one bright spot: MSFT surged 3% after Bill Ackman's Pershing Square disclosed a new stake, and NFLX quietly recovered +2%.

Club Holdings

Ticker	Name	Price	Week Change	Signal	Rationale
	Strategy Inc		▼ -7.53%	HOLD	Down 7.5% on a $1.5B convertible note repurchase announcement and a 2% Bitcoin decline. Pain this week, but TD Cowen just raised their target to $400 (+143% from here). Long-term Bitcoin accumulation thesis intact — do not panic sell.
	Netflix, Inc.		▲ +2.02%	HOLD	Up 2% quietly while the market fell — relative strength is encouraging. Grinding back from 52-week lows. $25B buyback is providing a floor. Texas AG lawsuit is noise. Patience.

Dow held up better than tech this week (-0.58%) — industrials and value names are defensive in a rising rate environment. Watch for rotation into Dow components if yields stay elevated.

Key Insights This Week

30-year Treasury at 5% is the week's macro story — rate cuts are off the table in 2026

NVDA earnings tomorrow May 20 — most important catalyst for the portfolio this month

MSFT Ackman stake is a strong signal — watch for breakout above $425

What Is a Covered Call?

A covered call means selling someone the right to buy your shares at a set price by a set date. You collect the premium today regardless of outcome. If the stock stays below the strike price, you keep the shares and the full premium. If it rises above the strike, your shares get called away at that price — you still profit, just capped at the strike.

This Week's IV Environment: VIX elevated above 20 as Treasury yields spike — this is one of the best IV environments for covered call premium collection we have seen this year. Rising rate fear creates persistent choppiness, which is ideal for selling calls. However, NVDA earnings tomorrow mean the most important play of the month happens AFTER the report, not before.

Plays This Week

MSTR

SELL CALL

Strategy Inc · $164.63

Post note-repurchase announcement, no major catalyst for 8+ weeks. IV remains extremely elevated from Bitcoin volatility. The -7.5% drop this week creates a lower strike baseline — sell wide OTM to preserve recovery upside.

Breakeven

Expiry: 2026-06-19 · 31 days · Timing: Wait for Bitcoin to stabilize — ideally place Wednesday or Thursday this week after the post-NVDA earnings news cycle settles. Target the June 19 $180 call, collect ~$650 per contract.

Historical: MSTR calls at 8-12% OTM expire worthless approximately 61% of the time given Bitcoin's tendency to consolidate between major moves.

■ Catalyst: No scheduled catalysts. Bitcoin price movements ongoing but not dated events.

NFLX

Netflix, Inc. · $89.33

NFLX is showing upside momentum for the first time in months (+2% this week while the market fell). This is not the time to cap the recovery. Let it run.

Watch for: Once NFLX reclaims $100+, covered calls at $105-$110 strike make sense to collect income on a position that has recovered.

■ Stock showing recovery momentum — covered call would cap upside right as it starts to move.

NVDA

NVIDIA Corporation · $220.61

Earnings tomorrow. The elevated IV you see right now EXISTS because of earnings risk. Selling a call today means you collect a small premium and expose yourself to a potential 10-15% gap up. Never sell before earnings.

Watch for: Wednesday May 21 morning is the entry. After earnings, IV will still be elevated (NVDA rarely disappoints) but the binary risk is gone. A June 19 $240-$245 call placed Wednesday could yield 4-6% in 30 days.

■ Earnings TOMORROW May 20 — IV at 78th percentile. This is exactly why you do not sell a covered call today.

VOO

Vanguard S&P 500 ETF · $674.59

Broad market ETF pulling back from highs into choppy rate-driven trading. Elevated VIX boosts ETF premiums well above their usual baseline. Steady, reliable income with no earnings risk.

$690.0	2.3%	$3.8	6.6%	$2021	$670.79
Strike	OTM	Premium/sh	Ann. Yield	Max Profit	Breakeven

Expiry: 2026-06-19 · 31 days · Timing: Place Monday or Tuesday this week. Target the June 19 $690 call. Collect ~$380 per contract for steady, predictable monthly income.

Historical: VOO covered calls at 2-3% OTM expire worthless approximately 75% of the time — the most consistent income play in the portfolio.

■ Catalyst: No earnings. Macro-driven only — Fed statements and CPI are the only risks.

Key Insights This Week

Wednesday May 21 morning is the most important covered call opportunity of the month — NVDA post-earnings

MSTR at 46% annualized yield is the richest premium in the portfolio right now

VIX above 20 means all premiums are elevated — this week and next are ideal selling windows

Club Benchmarking

What Winning Investment Clubs Do Differently

Clubs Researched This Week

HBS Black Investment Club

Strategy: Institutional deal flow pipeline — members rotate through sector research responsibilities and present directly to corporate partners like Apollo and Warburg Pincus

Tools: Formal sector rotation system with written quarterly thesis reviews per sector lead

Takeaway: FI Community should formalize sector ownership this quarter — assign each member one sector, require a 5-minute monthly update. Low effort, high knowledge compounding.

BetterInvesting / NAIC Network

Strategy: Stock Study methodology — standardized 5-year EPS growth analysis required before any buy vote; clubs track their prediction accuracy over time

Tools: BetterInvesting Stock Study tool; clubs publish their thesis accuracy rate annually as a performance metric

Takeaway: Tracking prediction accuracy creates accountability and improves decision quality over time. FI Community could keep a simple running scorecard of thesis outcomes.

LA Black Investors Club

Strategy: Community-first, barrier-free model — monthly in-person meetups, financial education first, portfolio second. Uses Meetup.com for discovery, M1 Finance and Robinhood for low-barrier investing ($5 minimums)

Tools: Meetup.com + social media for community discovery; low-cost brokerage apps for member onboarding

Takeaway: FI Community's $150 minimum is already accessible — lean into the 'lower barrier than you think' messaging in all content to drive membership growth.

Strategies to Adopt

Formalize sector ownership assignments this week

Difficulty: Low Impact: High

1. Assign each active FI Community member one sector: Tech, Finance, Energy, Consumer, Healthcare
2. Each member gives a 5-minute sector update at every meeting — what moved, what to watch
3. Rotate assignments every 6 months to build cross-sector knowledge across the club

Start a thesis accuracy scorecard

Difficulty: Low Impact: Medium

1. For every BUY recommendation made, record the thesis, target price, and time horizon
2. Review each thesis at expiry — was it right? Why or why not?
3. Publish the scorecard to members quarterly — this builds trust and improves discipline

Set up fintech brand partnership outreach this week

Difficulty: Medium Impact: High

1. Identify 3 fintech platforms aligned with FI Community's mission (SoFi, Webull, Acorns)
2. Pitch a co-branded event or member benefit — leverage FI Community's demographics and mission
3. This week's rising rate / Treasury news creates urgency: people are looking for guidance NOW

Key Insights This Week

- Sector ownership turns every member into a researcher — implement this week, zero cost
- Thesis scorecard separates disciplined clubs from guessing clubs — start tracking now
- Rising rate uncertainty is creating peak demand for financial guidance and community

Side Income & Business Moves

Specific Opportunities This Week

Opportunities This Week

30-Year Treasury Bond at 5.058% — Best Risk-Free Yield in 2 Decades

Fixed Income Effort: Low Time Sensitive

5.058% guaranteed, backed by U.S. government

Potential Return

How to start: Open TreasuryDirect.gov — free account, takes 10 minutes. Purchase 30-year bonds at the next auction or buy TLT ETF through any brokerage for immediate exposure. This is the highest risk-free yield available since before the 2008 financial crisis.

NVDA Post-Earnings Covered Call — Wednesday Morning Entry

Options Income Effort: Medium Time Sensitive

Estimated 4-6% in 30 days (June 19 $240-$245 call)

Potential Return

How to start: Do nothing today or tomorrow. After NVDA earnings report Tuesday night (May 20), assess the reaction. Wednesday morning, if NVDA trades above $220, sell a June 19 $240 or $245 call. IV will still be elevated post-earnings but binary risk is gone. See Page 3 for full setup.

MSFT Momentum — Ackman Stake Signal

Equities Effort: Low

Ackman's typical investment horizon is 2-3 years; his entry signals significant upside from $417

Potential Return

How to start: Bill Ackman's Pershing Square disclosed a new MSFT stake this week. Ackman is known for concentrated, high-conviction bets on undervalued wide-moat companies. This is a quality signal — consider a small position at current levels ahead of what could be a catalyst-driven re-rating.

High-Yield Savings — Still at 5% APY

Fixed Income Effort: Low

5.00% APY (Wealthfront, Ally)

Potential Return

How to start: With Warsh as new Fed Chair and rate cuts pushed out indefinitely, 5% HYSA rates are going to persist longer than expected. Every dollar sitting in a 0.38% checking account is losing real purchasing power. Move cash to HYSA today.

News Hooks → Action Items

■ 30-Year Treasury yield hits 5.058% — first time in nearly 2 decades

Lock in guaranteed 5%+ returns right now before any future rate shift changes the picture

Action: Buy 30-year Treasury bonds via TreasuryDirect.gov or TLT ETF this week

■ Kevin Warsh sworn in as new Fed Chair — rate cuts off the table for 2026

Rising rates mean HYSA and T-bills will stay elevated all year — don't wait to move idle cash

Action: Consolidate all emergency fund and idle cash into a 5% HYSA immediately

Key Insights This Week

30-year Treasury at 5% is the best risk-free yield in 20 years — a once-in-a-cycle opportunity

NVDA post-earnings Wednesday is the best covered call entry of the quarter — set a reminder

Warsh as Fed Chair means 5% savings rates persist through 2026 — lock in HYSA now
